Burned Over Spot Where the Child Was Found Four Weeks Ago.

Dover, Del.-The body of little Hor ace Marvin, who disappeared from the farm of his father, at Kitt's Hammock, marsh, in a fair state of preservation.

The spot where the body was found is about half a mile east of the farm-house toward the Delaware river Kitt's Hammock is between seven and eight miles from here, and is without communication with any place.

From information brought by a horse man, it is learned that the clothes on the child are the same he were the day he disappeared. The face downward. Dr. Marvin, at the moment the body was found, was not ready to say where it was found or whether he be-leved the child wandered into the narsh and lost his life. The marsh was frozen over the day the boy disappeared.

There is a theory that the child was murdered and his body placed in the parsh, as the long grass where the ody was found was burned and leared four weeks ago.
It is said that the body lay under a pile of grass and that the clothing uched by fire. The body was found by Ollie Pica the man who reported having seen two strange men who were inquirin about the topography of the country three days before the disappearance.

free, and low railway farea. But here is a copy of the letter:

"At your earnest solicitation a party of us from Tiplon left May 15 for Western Canada. Our interviews with you and a careful study of your literature led us to expect great things of your country when we should arrive there, and we were not disappointed. We went prepared to make a careful examination of the country and its resources, and we did so. At early dawn the second horning out of Tiplon we awoke in a new world. As far as the eye could reach was an apparently limitiess expanse of new sown wheat and prairie grasses. The vivid green of the wheat just beginning to stool out, and the inky blackness of the soil contrasted in a way beautiful to see. An hour or two later we steamed into Winnipeg. Here we found a numsee. An hour or two later we steamed into Winnipeg. Here we found a number of surprises. A hundred thousand sonls well housed, with every convenience that goes to make a modern up-to-date city—banks, hotels, newspapers, stores, electric light, susset railways, sewerage, waterworks, asphalt pavements, everything. With eyes and ears open we traveled for two thousand miles through Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta, going out over the Canadian Pacific railway, via Calgary to Edmonton, and returning to Winnipeg over the Canadian Northern railway. In the meantime we made several side trips and stopped off at a number of points where we made drives into the surrounding country. On every hand were evicountry. On every hand were evidences of prosperity. The growing wheat, oats, rye, flax, barley, not little patches, but great fields, many of them a square mile in extent, the three, five and sometimes seven-horse teams laying over an inky black ribbon of yellow stubble, generally in fur-rows straight as gun barrels and at right angles from the roads stretching into the distance, contrasted strangely with our little fields at home. The towns both large and small were doubly conspicuous, made so, first by their newness and second by the towering elevators necessary to hold the immense crops of wheat grown in the immediate neighborhood.

The newness, the thrift, the hustle, the sound of saw and hammer, the tents housing owners of buildings in various stages of completion, the piles of household effects and agricultural implements at the railway stations waiting to be hauled out to the "Claims," the occasional steam plow turning its twenty or thirty acres a day, the sod house, the unpainted house of wood, the up-to-date modern residence with large red barn by, all these were seen everywhere we went, be. We talked with men and visited their places that four years ago was unbroken prairie. Their houses, barns, implements and live stock were the equal of anything in Tipton Couning five, ten and twenty, yes, in one instance, forty thousand hushels of wheat a year. The fact that such large yields of wheat are raised so easily and so surely impressed us wery tavorably. And when we saw men who four or five years ago commenced there with two or three thousand dollars, and were now as well.

This increase in prices is the most existence that the protection the trusts enjoy has allowed them to artificially advance the price of their products beyond the natural increase in prices through the depreciation in gold.

TRUST HIGH PRICES

COST OF COMMODITIES ARTIF CIALLY INCREASED.

At Least 25 Per Cent. of the Advance le Tax Paid to Monopolles Protected by the Tariff.

The average price of common is now so high that it is most i so that you can vote for the system that is best for your pocket. As but few people keep old bills, but destroy them after a year or two, it is well to have the actual statistics of the insolution of the question. What is known as "Dun's Index Number" is wholesale prices of all the most im-portant articles of general consump-tion, and gives the value of the aver-go amount used per capita. On July 1, 1897, Dun's Index Number was $72,455. On March 1, 1907, it was $109.915, and on March 1, 1906, it was $104.904. The price level has therefore increased 5.5 per cent. during the past year and 51.7 per cent.

during the past ten years.

All this enormous increase in prices is not, however, chargeable to the tariff protecting the trusts, for in England, which has a tariff for revenue, with comparatively no protection to her manufacturers, the prices of commodities have increased over 25 per cent, during the same period. This increase in Dingiand is charged to ating value of that metal measured in commodities. As the effect of the increased production of gold is world-wide, gold inflation here has had the same effect as elsewhere, and there-fore 25 per cent. of our advance in here chargeable to some other cause and as the increase commenced in 1897, soon after our trust-protecting tariff bill became the law, it is conceded by the most eminent political WESTERN CANADA The Prospects for a Large Acreage to Be Sown in Wheat.

St. Paul, April 24, 1907.—Word has been received at the office of the Canadian Government in St. Paul that seeding has commenced at various points throughout Hanitoba, Baskatohewan and Alberta.

The heavy snowfall during the past winter has left the ground in splendid shape for successful seeding operations. The fine weather of the past few days has taken much of the frost out of the ground and during next week there will scarcely be a district in which the seeder is not being operated. The most optimistic conditions exist and in all districts the farmers are busy getting things in shape. or two to come. It is therefore of the numeri importance for consumers to understand why prices have advanced so rapidly since 1897, and especially those whose incomes have not increased in proportion to the cost of living. That a great percentage of the increase in prices has been artificially created by allowing the trusts a monopoly-through tariff protection is plainly shown by the fact that as soon as the Dingley bill was emacted in 1897 organization of trusts, combines and pools was accomplished on an enormous scale and began to boost the prices of their products and have constantly increased prices to the present day. If you have saved your old bills for groceries, dry goods, etc., for 1896 or 1897, and compare them with your bills of to-day, you will see that the average increase is prices is over 50 per cent. Has your income increased in the same proportion, or are the trust high prices compelling you to economize? As the question of a high tariff or a low tariff is a political issue that must be decided at the coming national election you, of course, want to be sure of the facts, so that you can vote for the system that is best for your pocket. As but few people keep old bills, but destroy them after a year or two, it is well to have the actual statistics of the inations are not confined to one distric but are spread over a country miles long by 400 miles in width.

The agents of the Canadian Govern-ment, located at different points throughout the United States, are busy giving information regarding the many new districts that are being made available for settlers. far as possible, there will be a good many men thrown out of work, and as ening of the demand for railroad and building material will naturally lead to a reduction in the price of those articles, which, added to the loss of wages of the men thrown out of work must lead to reduced consumption of time prices advancing and, indeed, some reduction in the price of those articles for which there is less. d mand. Prosperity Under Low Tariff.

The last time this country had a tariff for revenue, as free from protection as any tariff could be, was from 1846 to 1861. That was a period of great prosperity. The census bu-reau has just published a special re-port on national wealth by decades, and these figures show that the na-tional wealth more than doubled from 1850 to 1860, increasing from $7,135,-780,228 to $16,159,616,068. That is an increase of over 135 per cent. during the time when a low tariff and what the protectionists call free trade pre-vailed. During the latter decades the increase was never nearly so great, and from 1880 to 1890 was only 50 per cent., and from 1890 to 1900 was less than 33 per cent., and during the past four years since 1900 the increase will be but little over 50 per cent. for the fecade to 1910 at the same ratio of increase as for the past four years.

It is claimed by the stand-patters that all the prosperity this country has enjoyed is through protectionism, but neither the McKinley bill while it was in operation, nor the Dingley bill now, can compare as prosperity producers with the Democratic tariff for revenue period for 1850 to 1860. How will our protectionists explain these

PUT RELIGIOUS DUTY SECOND Stern Laws of Business Come First, Says Austrian Court.

An interesting case at law, which centered on the observance of an old fewish custom, was decided in Vienna recently. A merchant, says the American Israelite, discharged a clerk on account of neglect of duty. Among the charges against him was that he came to the store late in the morning because he attended service at the synagogue in order to say Kaddish—the prayer for the dead—for his father. The clerk argued that it was his privilege and his duty to say the prayer for his departed father, while the merchant, who was also a religious max, maintained that "if Moses had known that a man had to pay 8,000 guiden a year rent he would have made different laws." The judge would not allow such an argument, but decided in fasuch an argument, but decided in fa-vor of the merchant, "because the daily attendance at the synagogue could not be considered the right of the clerk without the consent of the
